

We should be your virtual technology department.

As of June 30, 2009, there are 1,668,870,408 potential customers, advocates, and clients on the internet.

You've only got 24 hours a day to figure out how to market to them, on top of everything else that you do for your company. I'll tell you what, why don't you let us worry about the technology implementation part.
